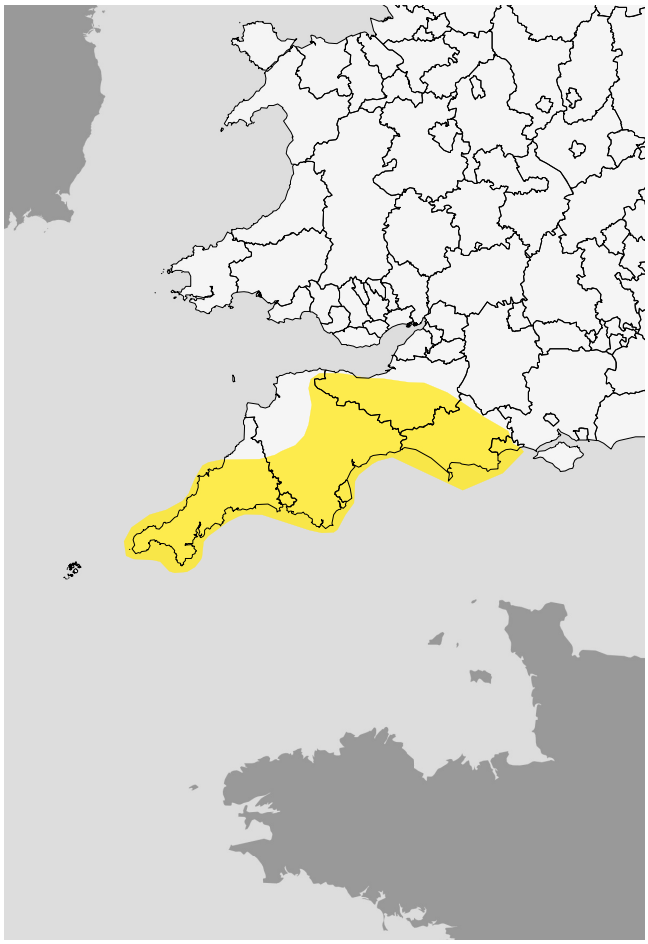
Yellow warning
Rain

Between
06:00 Sun 25 Feb 2024 and
23:59 Sun 25 Feb 2024



Heavy rain may cause some flooding and disruption in places.

What to expect

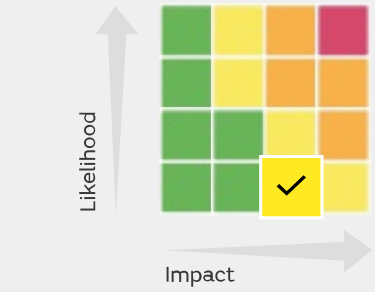
- Spray and flooding is likely to lead to difficult driving conditions and some road closures
- Where flooding occurs, there is a chance of delays or cancellations to train and bus services
- There is a chance that homes and businesses could be flooded, causing damage to some buildings
- There is a small chance that some communities will become cut off by flooded roads
- There is a slight chance of power cuts and loss of other services to some homes and businesses

Further details

Rain will move east across southwest England on Sunday morning, persisting through much of the day before slowly easing later. 15 to 25 mm of rainfall is expected quite widely with 40-60 mm over Dartmoor and Exmoor. There is a small chance of these higher accumulations falling in some lower lying parts of Devon and Cornwall too.

What should I do?

Check if your property could be at risk of flooding. If so, consider preparing a flood plan and an emergency flood kit.



Very low likelihood of medium impacts

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area

Reason for update

The impact level has been increased to cater for the possibility of very heavy rain affecting parts of Devon and Cornwall from late morning until mid-afternoon. The warning has also been extended across Exmoor, and end time pushed back to the end of the day.
